

Consequential Loss Assumption Clause

The insurance under this policy is hereby extended to include loss, destruction, or damage to stock while contained in refrigeration units within building(s) or equipment in said building(s) insured under this policy due to change in temperature caused by a peril insured against, or due to mechanical breakdown of the refrigeration unit, or power interruption.

The foregoing extension is subject otherwise to all the terms and conditions of this policy (as now existing or hereafter changed) and without increasing the amount insured.

The Insurer shall not be liable under the provisions of this clause for more than the limit specified on the declaration page for this form. This limit shall not increase the limit of liability specified in the declaration page for stock.
